Life for Eight Is Born

Darkness fell tonight over the Bad
Lands of Arizona and New Mexico
with the secret of the missing Transcontinental Air Transport, City of San Francisco, and its human cargo of eight persons, a woman and seven men, still locked in the desolate, wilderness.Rumor after rumor of the finding of the missing sky riders, alive and dead, emerged from the desolate territory, only to be exploded before nightfall, with the mystery as complete and baffling as on the first day of the monoplane's disappearance last Tuesday.Comb 50,000 Square Miles.
Fifty thousand square miles of the most sparsely populated wilderness of the United States were the scene of the most unusual and most spectacular hunt the west has ever seen. Indian runners and scouts, tribesmen from the Zuni, Apache, Navajo and Hopi reservations, afoot and on horse, prospectors and motorists, were trekking into all sections of Arizona and western New Mexico.In the skies, as low as the desolate rocky regions would permit, airplanes of all ports, from the United States army, navy and marine corps, a number of transport companies and private ships, dived in ceaseless vigilance for wreckage of the all-metal tri-motored monoplane, one of the newest in the air transport service.Think Indians Survivors.
The western strategic center of the search here was electrified into action
this morning when Lieutenant D. W. Tomlinson, Maddux line executive and former naval pilot, flew in from the north shortly after 10 o'clock. Tomlinson reported that a hundred miles to the north, in the center of the Hopi Indian reservation, four persons emerged from an Indian hut and frantically waved white cloths
which he interpreted as distress signals.All available planes took off with Lieutenant Tomlinson, feeling certain that rescue of survivors of the City of San Francisco was but a matter of hours. Five hours later Charles Goldtrap, scenic Airways pilot, dropped into Winslow and reported that he had zoomed down low over the but, and saw four Indians, two men and two women, dash from the hut and wave white cloths, laughing and cheering at the unusual sight of an airplane.Get Second Rumor.
Just as this hopeful report came to naught, the southern sector of the search was startled by a report that wreckage of the big transport was found near the Celestine mine, south of Hachita, in the southwestern corner of New Mexico. This report said the woman passenger, who was Mrs.
George R. Raymond, of Glendale, Cal., was alive, but the seven men were dead.Within less than an hour, direct reports to the Associated Press from the Hachita region indicated this to be without foundation.
Meanwhile the scores of planes which dropped over all sections of Arizona and western New Mexico, failed to bring in any information
to solve the mystery of the missing
sky liner.Lindy Flies to Aid.

nical adviser of T. A. T. and the man

At Pebble BeachVACATION OF WRIT
IN MERRITT CASE
SEEN BY SOLICITORSolicitor Has Obtained
Affidavits Which He Says Will Show Error of Claims.Vacating of the writ staying the execution of Alvin E. Merritt will be ordered Monday by Judge A. B. Park at Madison when he conducts a hearing on the writ, it was forecast Friday night by Solicitor-General John A.
Boyd after he had obtained affidavits which he said would show the basis of Merritt's claims to be in error.The solicitor-general Friday obtained from the state's chief prosecuting
witness in the Merritt trial an affidavit that she was sworn when she appeared on the stand for testimony.
It was an affidavit from a woman spectator at the trial, who said the witness was not sworn, that Merritt's lawyers, H. A. Allen and W. A.
Covington, late Thursday night, on the eve of the condemned attacker's scheduled execution, obtained from Judge Park the order granting the writ.Should Judge Park vacate the order as Mr. Boyd expects, the solicitor said Merritt would be taken before Judge E. E. Fowley in Fulton superior court and be re-sentenced. The state probably will ask that the new execution date be September 20, which is just within the 10-day minimum time limit required
by law.To Fight Further Appeal.
Solicitor-General Boyd said he would seek of Judge Park complete vacation of the writ so that Merritt's case would not have the opportunity to carry their latest move to the supreme court and thereby again delay his execution.Though Merritt had not been returned to the Fulton tower Friday night it was expected that he would be brought back and confined here until the legal battle is settled.
While both sides prepared Friday
for the legal battle before Judge Park, Governor Hardman announced his decision not to interfere with Merritt's execution, nor to intervene in the execution of House of Representatives Governor Hardman followed recommendations by the state prison commission in the three cases.Sentenced to Death.
Merritt was sentenced to death following conviction on a charge of assaulting a woman. He was arrested by city officers who were investigating a series of attacks upon women in the Highland avenue section. The death sentence was imposed in the second case in which Merritt was tried, he having drawn a 15 to 16-year sentence in the first case.Merritt became almost hysterical with joy when informed of Judge Park's action on a petition for writ of habeas corpus filed by Attorneys H. A. Allen and W. A. Covington. "Thank God," Merritt exclaimed. "I knew my death could not be Judge Park's action brought about Merritt's second escape from execution as he was confined in the death cell awaiting the scheduled hour to pass through the little green door
only a few feet away from his cell.
He was granted a respite last month
by Governor Hardman, in order that the prison commission might study
the case.FIRST SNOWFALL
OF WINTER HITS
WESTERN STATESCheyenne, Wyo., September 6.—(AP)
An advance showing of the winter styles in the west today, with snow ranging from a trace to 14 inches. Freezing temperatures were reported from several sections.
Motor traffic was seriously impaired along roads in the outlying districts and scores of automobiles were stranded.
Five inches of snow fell in Casper
in a six-hour period. The storm approached blizzard proportions between Rock Springs and Pinedale. Snow was holding westbound airmail planes
in Cheyenne and Laramie.
Cheyenne was experiencing its earliest snowfall within memory. Telephone service was out of commission at Wheatland where ice three inches thick had formed on the wires. Snow law from one to four inches deep in parts of western Nebraska, the Black Hills region of South Dakota and Colorado and Montana. Temperatures ranged near freezing and in some places dropped below.MAYOR RAGSDALE
VETOES MEASURE
BARRING BUSESOrdinance Sent Back to Council To Be Redrawn,
So as To Give Operators Protection.Mayor I. N. Ragdsdale Friday afternoon vetoed and sent back to city council for further consideration an ordinance designed to restrict buses
from use of several main downtown traffic arteries.
All other papers passed to Mr.
Ragdsdale by city council and the al-dermanic board were approved by him Wednesday. His action on the bus restriction, which operators declared would virtually bar them from entering Atlanta, followed a lengthy public hearing at which both sides of the question were discussed at length.Councilman James L. Wells, chairman of the traffic committee of city council and author of the paper which barred the large buses from certain main thoroughfares, asked the mayor
at the hearing to veto the measure and send it back to city council, where a committee could be named to work out bus regulation in an amicable and satisfactory manner to all operators.Ragdsdale's message to council in connection with his veto, follows:
"I am returning without my approval
ordinance adopted by general council to regulate bus traffic on certain streets. I am returning it for the reason that I think the matter should be given further consideration, and it is very probable that an agreement can be had that will be satisfactory to all concerned.""It is very evident that the bus traffic must be regulated, as at present
many of the operators appear to have little regard for other modes of transportation. They stop at any point, loading and unloading passengers,
blocking the streets at any and all times and traversing all the streets
that appear to furnish most business
to their companies.""I think this is unfair competition, and the city attorney advises that council can regulate properly.""I am also requested by the chairman of the traffic committee to return this paper, that the matter may be given further consideration."Smythe Gambrell, attorney for Greyhound Lines and the Inner-City Bus Line, was the first speaker. He stated his clients do not object to reasonable regulation, and said they would co-operate with the city in any way possible.George Spence, attorney, declared that Atlanta streets are being cluttered up with the large buses to the inconvenience of Atlantans and to the traveling public.
"Some regulatory measures must be adopted," he said. "One of the lines is operating what is tantamount to a jitney bus service, after the jitneys were barred from the streets by action of this body. They make stops where the traffic is most remunera-ble and are engaged in the same general business which jitney drivers conduct. They are not under bond nor do they pay city taxes. Jitney operators furnished the city both."Former Governor Clifford M. Walker, representing the Southern Motor Ways, appealed for an equitable and just adjustment of regulations which would be fair to operators and the city. He reiterated Mr. Gambrell's statement that operators would work in harmony with the city government with a view of establishing drive-in bus terminals and elimination of parking on the streets.Frank Reynolds, of the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association and assistant to the president of Dinkler hotels, spoke in behalf of the bus lines, declaring that they should be permitted to continue to operate in the interest of good business.Merchants Favor Buses.
C. V. Hohenstein, secretary of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association, also pleaded for continued service in the interest of about 500 members of the organization.E. D. Barrett, mayor of College Park, and Ezra Phillips, city attorney of East Point, pleaded for continued and unimpaired service, declaring they felt sure operators would co-operate to cut the congestion to a minimum.
Both held that the bus service is a great convenience to suburban citizens. J. C. Steinmetz, of the Inter-City Bus Line, submitted a group of petitions from about 250 merchants and from scores of citizens asking the mayor to disapprove the bus paper.
City Attorney James L. Mayson
ruled the city has authority to regulate street travel under the bus bill passed by the assembly.

Negro, Dying at Grady,

Motorman.One supposed negro bandit was dying Friday night and another was being sought by police after the robbery of C. O. Head, a street car operator, at the end of the West Fair car line.According to police reports, Head brought his car to the end of the line shortly before 8 o'clock and was changing the trolley when two negroes approached him. While one threatened him with a pistol the other removed from the automobile by a bill from his pockets, ignoring a quan-

waiting automobile after the robbery,
Head drew his gun and emptied it into them. Apparently both were hit, he said, for it seemed that they were aided into the automobile by a third person. The two then sped away and he returned his car to the downtown starter's office, where he reported the affair to police and company officials.Police immediately set a watch at the hospitals. About an hour later James Rucker, 34-year-old negro, of 58 Larkin street, was brought to Grady hospital with a bullet near his heart. Head was summoned by officers and he identified Rucker as brought Rucker to the hospital, was brought for questioning. She claimed that Rucker came home about 9

shot in a fight with another negro on Pine street.Officers late Friday night were pressing the questioning of the Mchelped her bring Rucker to the hospital, in an effort to learn the identity of the second man in the holdup. A watch was maintained at the hos-

TERM AT THOMSONThomson, Ga., September 6.—(AP)
J. Hunter Clary, son of a former McDuffie county sheriff, was under sentence of life imprisonment at the state farm at Milledgeville tonight after being found guilty today of the murder last May 17 of his father-in-law, George S. Story, by a jury which recommended mercy.Clary was outwardly calm as the verdict was read and Judge C. J.
Perryman imposed the sentence. The jury had deliberated approximately two hours.Clary's defense was "delusional insanity" and in an unsworn statement to the jury he said his mind was "a complete blank" regarding the events leading up to the fatal wounding of Story. The state claimed a confession of guilt from Clary made when he was taken into custody at Augusta

Washington, September 6.—(AP)—
President Hoover served public notice today on shipbuilding corporations interested in naval contracts that he would not tolerate interference by them in the international negotiations for naval disarmament which he recently initiated.His announcement was made at the conclusion of a blistering statement denouncing the methods which William B. Shearer, a naval expert, claims he used at the unsuccessful
Geneva preliminary arms conference in 1927 and elsewhere as the agent of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, the American Brown Boveri
Electric Corporation and the Newport
News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company.Creates International Hate.
These three corporations, each of which now is building cruisers for the American navy, were called upon by Mr. Hoover to state their side of the case in reply to the allegations made by Shearer in the suit he has filed in the New York supreme court against the corporations for salary and expenses during, before and after the Geneva conference."It is due to the public, it is due to the government, and it is due to the corporations themselves," the president said, after he had directly charged that part of the propaganda which Shearer disseminated at Geneva "has been directed to create international distrust and hate."
Disclosing that he had directed Attorney-General Mitchell to consider
"what action we can take," the chief executive said that unless the companies could show "an entirely different situation from that which was purported in this suit, we are compelled to consider what measures can be proposed to free the country from such influence."Must Stop Interference.
While conceding every American
the right to engage in open propaganda if he wishes, Mr. Hoover asserted that "it is obviously against public interest for those who have financial interest in, or may be engaged in contracts for the construction of naval vessels, to attempt to influence the government in this way."

Col. Palmer Explains Stand Against "One Party" Plan

Denouncing Georgia's one-party system as the chief cause of the state's lack of progress, Colonel James Hill Palmer, candidate of the independent progressive party for congress from the fifth Georgia district, opened his speaking campaign at the Hapeville city hall Friday night before a large audience.

"What is the one-party system?" he asked. "It is a scheme to deprive the people of their free vote. The bosses select your candidates for the primary and then tell you how you must vote. We are fighting that preposterous practice in this campaign, and are using the independent progressive party of Georgia as an effective instrument.

"I am speaking to you as one Georgian to a group of Georgians. My people landed on the shores of South Carolina in 1680, a colony of Englishmen seeking tax relief, and a colony of French Huguenots seeking religious freedom. Such were my ancestors. My father moved from Charleston, S. C. to Perry, Ga., in 1850. I was born in Houston county. My family in my direct line has furnished an officer in every war that has been fought in this country.

Quotes From Document.

"One hundred and fifty-three years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence I feel like quoting from that great document:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That when any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it and institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security.

"And such has been the suffering of Georgians. More laws, more taxes, more injustices—a never-ending procession of abuses and encroachments on the people's rights. And more lately its autocratic dictatorship.

Operation of System.

"What is the one-party system? You have recently observed its operation in the selection of primary candidates, with the elimination of everybody but the bosses' choice. Not only do they choose your candidates but they tell you that if you vote in the primary you must subscribe to and endorse the Houston convention and forever pledge yourself to the party. It is a scheme to deprive the people of their free vote.

"It is a system in which two men are on the ticket and organize their factions within the ranks of one party. The successful candidate pays his political debt by favoring his faction while the rest of the people must get along without representation. This becomes a most evil form of government.

"Under a two-party system the people are not obliged to either party. They go to the polls absolutely free to vote for the party representing their principles; the party that has effected the most constructive program and accomplished the most beneficial legislation. Under such a system Georgia in a few years would again rank as a leader among the southern states.

Meaning of Democracy.

"Democracy means government by the people—government in which the supreme power is retained by the people and exercised by representation. Can you associate the democracy of late years with democracy? 'Everywhere you hear, "What is the matter with Georgia? A great commonwealth, once referred to as the Empire State of the South. Other states have gone forward in leaps and bounds, while Georgia with its rich natural resources, its wonderful potentialities—it's great possibilities for diversification of crops, its long growing season, its ideal climate for manufacturing, its delightful year-round temperature and its best people on earth—yet Georgia has made progress uncertain and slow in comparison with other states not so greatly blessed.

"Georgia is a state founded on benevolence, having as its motto, "Wisdom, Justice and Moderation" in making its laws; justice in their administration, tempered with moderation. And now little is left of that great motto but the impression of the seal. And that's the result of our one-party system!

"I am the candidate of the independent progressive party of Georgia for congress—a party organized to combat the evils and inefficiencies of the one-party system. Let us reason from another angle: Suppose we had only one shoe store, or one hat store or one clothing store in Atlanta. What would be the result? The people would not permit such a condition to exist for they know that competition is the only protection against exorbitant prices. Yet our state business, our state government, the very backbone of our livelihood, is allowed to go on year in and year out without competition."

Norman, Ex-Banker, Is Indicted Again By Fulton Jury

An "omnibus" indictment carrying with it a series of charges previously filed, was returned Friday by the Fulton county grand jury against T. J. Norman, one-time official of the now defunct Colonial Trust Company. Norman is charged under the indictment with "willful misappropriation of the bank's funds."

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin said the present bond under which Norman is now free would stand and that the former banker would be brought to trial as early as possible.

COL. L. S. WILLIS IS PUT IN CHARGE OF MARINE DIVISION

Colonel L. S. Willis has relieved Major Chester Gawne as officer in charge of the southern marine corps recruiting division, with headquarters at New Orleans, La. It was announced at the local marine corps recruiting station Friday.

Other changes announced at the same time included the transfer of Sergeant Paul Glover from the local station to Memphis, Tenn., and the transfer of Sergeant Paul J. McNeese and Norwood S. Page to the Atlanta post from Dallas, Texas.

Night School Opening.

The Tech High night school will open at 7 o'clock Monday night. All those desiring to enroll have been asked to report not later than 6 o'clock. The courses offered include commercial art, machine shop work, mechanical drawing and blue print reading.

JOHN ZUBER, RETIRED
LUMBERMAN, IS DEADFuneral Services Will Be Held at 2 O'Clock This Afternoon.

John Zuber, 88, retired lumberman and a resident of Atlanta for more than 50 years, died Friday afternoon at the home of his son, John W. Zuber, 44 Peachtree circle, after an illness of only a few weeks.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of the Harry G. Poole Company by the Rev. R. W. Oakley. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Zuber was a native of Germany and came to this country at the age of 14. His family went to Buffalo, N. Y., and at the outbreak of the War Between the States he enlisted in the Union army. During the course of that conflict he served for several months in and near Atlanta. Having been attracted to the country during his service here he returned to the south after peace had been restored and in 1871 he settled in Atlanta. For many years he was active in the wholesale lumber business but retired many years ago, leaving the management of the business to his son, who is his only immediate surviving relative.

COLUMBIA BAKING
COMPANY TO GET
$46,661 TAX REFUND

A refund of $46,661 to the Columbia Baking Company, of Atlanta, for over-assessment of income tax in 1924, 1925 and 1926 was announced Friday by the internal revenue bureau according to Associated Press dispatches from Washington.

Joseph Hexter is president and general manager of the company.

The over-assessments were due to allowance of a deduction for ordinary and necessary business expenses that had not been claimed in the return, depreciation and an additional deduction for debts ascertained to be worthless, the dispatch stated.

The Marines Who Wouldn't Fight!

"Hard-Boiled" Butler

(The General Busts Up a Diplomatic Parley)

This is the seventh of eight articles in which Major General Smedley Darlington Butler is telling the diverting story of the bloodless conquest of China by the U. S. marines he took out there in 1927 to protect American lives in the country's raging civil war.

BY SMEDLEY DARLINGTON
BUTLER

Major-General, U. S. M. C.

We of the United States marines declined to fortify and man our lines in Tientsin, which had the effect of quieting the other allies, who had determined to man their lines.

Furthermore, in order to avoid unnecessary excitement on the part of all, foreigners and Chinese alike, we did not string our position with barbed wire.

To be prepared for an emergency, however, we built wire entanglements which could readily be defended by the men as they rushed to their assigned positions of defense. These entanglements, which would have been in place as soon as the men were kept out of sight in the various billets, thus not offending the Chinese.

Also, instead of building field works, each man carried empty sand bags and a small shovel, so that within a few minutes of his arrival in designated position he would have the advantage of wire and trench protection.

One position, however, was wired and manned by us, and that was the plant of the Standard Oil Company, which was within our defense area in the ex-Russian concession in Tientsin, and which contained many hundreds of thousands of gallons of gasoline and fuel. We had good reason to man that plant.

A frantic telephone message informed me at headquarters one afternoon that the huge Standard Oil establishment was in flames and that the blaze was spreading so rapidly the entire $8,000,000 plant was endangered, as was the whole community.

I immediately ordered out 2,000 marines to fight the fire. One tin storage house was in flames and the heat was terrific. On one side, 16 feet away, was a similar structure of tin construction and filled with thousands of cans of gasoline. On another side was a similar structure filled with innumerable thousands of cans of kerosene, on a third side, 20 feet from the inferno, was still another kerosene warehouse, while on the fourth side were six tanks each holding 50,000 barrels of oil.

At a glance we saw that the burning warehouse was doomed, and we feared that the other structures would soon go up in smoke. The marines immediately began to cart away the cans of oil and kerosene in the three other warehouses.

Lessons Learned in Philadelphia.

I recalled then that Ross Davis, chief engineer of Philadelphia's fire department, had told me when I was director of public safety there that the way to stop a fire from spreading was to build fire walls between the burning building and those endangered.

Half of the marines were thereupon set to gathering up tin, earth and other non-inflammable materials, and building a wall about the burning building. The other half of the detail continued the task of taking to a safe place the kerosene and gas containers.

I entered one of the endangered warehouses and stood in the narrow space separating the slight tin walls from the piled cans of combustible oils. Soon the rosin started to drip down the walls, indicating that the heat had become sufficiently great to melt it, and I feared that shortly the kerosene would explode. The marines were immediately ordered from the scene, but when the officers were not looking the men would steal in to rescue an extra can or two of Standard Oil product.

On the second day the Chinese general in charge of the troops in the area volunteered to send 2,500 Chinese soldiers to help in the battle against the fire provided we fed them. We agreed and they came.

They didn't know much about fighting a fire, but neither did the marines. At any rate they copied our efforts, aided in the building of the fire walls, which soon stood 10 feet above the burning building, and in carrying to safety cans of gasoline and kerosene.

They ate with our men, slept with them and became their good friends. We managed to subdue the fire after four days, saving $6,000,000 worth of property for the oil company.

In appreciation of the efforts of the marines the company sent $1,000 for their entertainment fund, while the United States government authorized the marine corps to replace $6,000 worth of clothing the boys ruined in their efforts.

Meantime our relations with the Chinese were getting more friendly. After Rear Admiral Williams went back home we had another great commander, Admiral Mark Bristol, and the same policy of consideration for the Chinese was continued. Admiral Bristol had been high commissioner of Turkey and he had a good many ideas of his own. He, too, was very friendly with the Chinese. In our minister, Mr. MacMurray, we had one of the highest grade public officials I have ever met. I had never known anyone who took his job more seriously and who worked harder to bring about good relations.

The Helpful Interpreter.

Though we thought of many unusual things to do to bring about this friendly feeling, much was done by the interpreters. If I said something to the Chinese that wasn't quite right the interpreter would say something else. Whatever he said always was proper. If they said something, he thought we wouldn't like, the interpreter, in translating, would turn it into a joke.

When the winter of 1927 approached we began to look around for permanent quarters, and selected the old barracks in the abandoned German concession as the ideal place. Since the Germans gave up their concession the land has been controlled by the Chinese.

We called on the minister of foreign affairs of the central government in Peking. Fred Meyer, then in temporary charge of our legation, accompanied me, as did my interpreter. The minister was not known to speak English, and Meyer did not speak Chinese. I became generally irritated at the usually formal and pointless conversation, which was not getting us anywhere. Finally, unable to restrain myself, I pointed my finger at the minister's face, and speaking in English, said:

"You talk like an American senator trying to avoid giving a direct answer on the question of prohibition to a group composed equally of wets and dries, just before election."

The minister's face broke into a smile of understanding. Then in perfect English, he replied:

"I, the Chinese minister of foreign affairs, cannot, consistently protest your presence in China, as I have been doing, and then present to you a Chinese barracks in which to live. However, confidentially, we are very desirous of having you remain in China, and I will quietly order my subordinate in Tientsin to give the barracks to you. I will then punish him by removing him from office, but later I will give him a better office in Peking."

This was the first time anyone at our legation knew the minister understood and spoke English.

For all the conversation we didn't get the barracks, as all the officials were afraid that when the southerners got in Tientsin they would chop off the blocks of the officials who gave the marines a Chinese barracks. They need not have feared, however, for the southerners later lent us a plot of 4,000 acres and built a rifle range so the marines could keep up their marksmanship.

From time to time Chinese officials would protest against our presence on Chinese soil. They wrote long-winded letters. They also objected, at first, to our airplanes, although we had a right to fly along the line of the railroad from Tientsin to Peking.

The Chinese officer who brought about these protests was a nice little chap and wore a most gorgeous hat. Whenever he came we had the band play the Chinese national air, and our official photographers would take several snaps of him. Then we would tell him how friendly we were with his government, and add:

"Look here, these southern fellows are coming up looking for you northerners, and what are you going to do? They are going to cut off your heads. Our presence may save you."

And always he would reply:

"You just tear up this protest. Never mind even reading it. It doesn't mean anything. We are only doing this to save our faces with our own people and to tell the southerners, when they come, that we tried to get you out."

And he would leave, to return in a few weeks with another similar protest.

TESTING OF GEORGIA
POULTRY PLANNED
BY VETERINARIAN

A conference on plans for testing Georgia poultry for hereditary chicken diseases, in an effort to breed baby chicks absolutely free from these complaints, was held Friday between J. M. Sutton, state veterinarian and professor of poultry husbandry at the State College of Agriculture.

Stamping out disease is important from an economic standpoint, as enormous losses are caused in poultry raising, Dr. Sutton said. Tests of poultry will be conducted through the veterinarian's office, in order that poultry breeders may cull affected chickens out of their flocks and raise chicks from the eggs of non-affected birds.

"The poultry industry of Georgia is a $40,000,000 proposition, and it is important that any chicken diseases be wiped out," Professor Wood said. Breeders who desire their flocks tested are invited to write Dr. Sutton. A total of 25,000 birds were tested last year.

IMPERIAL COUNCIL OF MYSTIC SHRINE
TO MEET IN JUNE

Official meeting was received Friday by the officials of Yaarab Temple that the 1930 meeting of the Imperial Council of the Mystic Shrine will be held in Toronto, Ontario, on June 10, 11 and 12. This will be the second time in the history of the organization that the annual meeting has been held outside the United States, the former occasion being 41 years ago when Toronto secured the meeting.

At the meeting of the Imperial Council in Los Angeles last June the time and place of the 1930 meeting was not decided, this important matter being left to the imperial potentate and members of the hotel committee, who are instructed to investigate facilities of the various cities desiring the meeting and select one that could properly care for the vast throng that attends the annual meetings of the Shrine.

The selection of Toronto will prove exceedingly popular to the nobility, and the imperial officers anticipate a large number of the temples of North America to take advantage of the opportunity to visit the Canadian city.

as possible between her and the arresting officers, but not enough, however, and the arrest was soon made.

Bond was fixed at $1,000, officers stating that they had made repeated attempts to raid the establishment,
with no success.

Proposed $800,000 Bid For City Hall Centers Councilmanic Interest

Names of Prospective Bidders for Purchase of Site Have Not Been Announced.

Keen interest was shown in Atlanta city hall circles Friday over announcement of Councilman Harry York, of the sixth ward, Thursday that a cash bid of $800,000 for purchase of the present site of the municipal hall would be filed within 30 days.

There were reports that the offer would be filed within the next few days and that it would be accompanied by a certified check for $50,000 to insure performance of the contract.

Mayor J. N. Bagley was known to have conferred during the day with certain members of council, who were said to be in touch with the proposed bidders, but he declined to make any statement at the present time. Names of the prospective bidders have been withheld.

Mr. York's announcement of the proposed bid for an outright sale of the tract was made Thursday afternoon during consideration of a bid of Palmer, Inc., to lease rights to the property for 90 years at a total rental of $5,730,000.

Council declined to act on the Palmer proposal and sent it back to a joint committee composed of the special city hall committee headed by Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon, of the second ward, and the building and grounds committee, of which Councilman George Lyle, of the eleventh ward, is chairman.

Alvin Cates, president of the Adams-Cates Company, realtors, through whom the Palmer bid was submitted, issued the following statement regarding it:

"It is our understanding that council unanimously considers Palmer, Incorporated's, proposal the best submitted in the 18 months or more that city hall site has been for lease, but that it deferred action on the assurance by one of the councilmen that he would submit a better proposal within 30 days."

"We assume that if this is not promptly forthcoming the committee will reopen the matter with us, which time we will take it with our principals to see if they will renew the proposition."

CHINA AGAIN ASKS POWERS TO FOREGO EXTRA PRIVILEGES

Nanking, China, September 6.—(AP) C. T. Wang, foreign minister, informed newspapers today he was sending new notes to the United States, Great Britain, France, Norway and the Netherlands urging them to give up their extra-territorial rights in China without delay.

Dr. Wang said the note to the United States would be mailed today, to Great Britain and France tomorrow, and to Norway and the Netherlands next week.

He said there had been no change in the Sino-Russian situation since last week, that China was awaiting soviet approval of the Nanking draft of a joint resolution for operation of the Chinese Eastern Railway, and a report from the Chinese minister at Berlin, who at present was in China.

MAN IS CONVICTED ON MANN ACT BILL AFTER GIRL'S DEATH

Columbus, Ga., September 6.—(AP) Entering a plea of guilty to violation of the Mann act before Federal Judge B. S. Deaver here today, Marshall R. Hargett was ordered to pay a fine of $200 within 30 days. Failure to comply with the court ruling in that time will result in the passing of sentence.

Hargett and C. W. Brittingham, of Phenix City, Ala., were indicted jointly on government charges that the men transported two Columbus girls to Alabama and that one of the girls, shortly after the alleged trip, ended her life by drinking poison. Before her death she was said to have made a statement to police here involving Hargett. Brittingham was acquitted of the charges in a trial several months ago.

CHEMIST REPORT IS DUE TUESDAY IN MYSTERY DEATH

Monroe, Ga., September 6.—(AP) Notification that a report would be made next Tuesday by the state chemist of Atlanta on an analysis of the viscera of Mrs. J. J. Matthews, who died suddenly here several weeks ago, was received today by Coroner W. T. Brown, of Walton county. The analysis was requested by the coroner after a jury he had called was unable to determine the cause of the woman's death.

As soon as the chemist's report is received, Coroner Brown said he would reconvene the jury and submit to them the results of the analysis. Warrants have been issued yet in the case, and no action is expected until the jury renders a verdict.

Mrs. Matthews is survived by her husband and two children.

NO AGE LIMIT SET FOR ENUMERATORS OF 1930 CENSUS

Washington, September 6.—(AP) The census bureau announced today that no age limit has been fixed for the appointment of enumerators to take the decennial census next year.

The announcement was made, the census bureau said, in response to inquiries from war veterans and their organizations regarding rumors that men over 42 would not be eligible for appointment as enumerators.

Heflin, Jr., Forfeits Bond for Trial On Drunkenness

Phoenix City, Ga., September 6.—(AP) J. Tom Heflin, Jr., son of the senior United States senator from Alabama, and C. B. Haines, failed to appear in recorder's court today on charges of drunkenness and violating the state prohibition law, and their bond was forfeited.

The two were arrested here early this week after officers had been attracted by the "peculiar course" of Heflin's automobile, which was being driven by Haines, of Standing Rock, Alabama.

Heflin was charged with drunkenness, and when he claimed ownership of the car, a charge of violating the state prohibition law also was preferred. Haines was charged with driving an automobile while drunk. Heflin forfeited $63 bond and Haines $75.

SUCCESSOR TO DAVIS WILL NOT BE NAMED

Washington, September 6.—(AP) Election of Claudia H. Huston, of Tennessee, as successor to Chairman Hubert Work probably will be the only business transacted by the republican national committee at its session Monday.

This was indicated today after high leaders of the party had arrived and held preliminary conferences. Huston is unopposed for chairman, and all controversial subjects are to be eliminated from the session.

There had been the suggestion that the committee elect a national committeeman for Georgia to succeed Ben Davis, a negro, who failed of re-election by the Georgia delegation to the Kansas City convention. However, it was stated that the vacancy would not be filled at this time. Patronage matters will continue to be handled by the special committee of republicans and Hoover democrats which has been set up in that state.

Some party leaders held the view now that there should be no action looking to the selection of a national committeeman for Georgia until the state central committee has been able to agree upon a man.

Upward of a dozen additional members of the national committee arrived during the day and several who are members of the executive committee conferred with Dr. Work at republican headquarters. These included Ralph Williams, of Oregon, vice chairman; Clarence Hamlin, of Colorado; David W. Mulvaney, of Kansas; and Pat Sullivan, of Wyoming.

It was learned from authoritative sources here Friday night that the Georgia state republican committee, headed by Lindsey Hopkins, has no intention of recommending a successor for Davis at any time in the near future.

More of the same is the outlook for Atlanta today. Mr. Scott declaring that there is still a chance for a thunderstorm or so during the course of the afternoon. The temperature is likewise scheduled to remain as is with a range from 71 to the upper 80's. Sunday should produce a light drop in the mercury readings, it is expected.

BETTER CONDITIONS SEEN IN SOUTHEAST

Chattanooga, Tenn., September 6.—(AP) Agricultural, commercial and industrial conditions in the southeastern states will be considerably better during the last quarter of this year than they were during the corresponding period of 1928, according to reports presented to the 27th regular meeting of the southeast shippers' advisory board here today.

Out of 26 basic industries reporting only five anticipated decreases. In view of existing quarantine regulations and state laws, shipments of citrus fruits from Florida are expected to be greatly below those of October, November and December, 1928.

Production of fresh fruit will be smaller and a decrease of 7 per cent is predicted for potatoes. Other fresh vegetables, however, show an aggregate increase in anticipated production of 17 per cent.

The larger and earlier cotton crop will result in an increased movement of 20 per cent in cotton and 15 per cent in cottonseed in shipments over last year's inventory prevailing.

Shipments of grain and grain products will be five per cent heavier. Mills and elevators are now carrying heavy stocks with material increases over last year's inventory prevailing.

Movement of sugar will be approximately the same as last year, mainly due to large stocks now on hand. Syrup and molasses shipments will show a slight increase.

Fertilizer and fertilizer materials, including phosphate rock shipments, will equal last year's.

Shipments of brick, clay and clay products continued to be below normal and while some increases are reported, it is predicted that the total volume will be on the same level with 1928.

Production of coal and coke will increase and the movement should exceed last year by 5 per cent based on augmented operations of cotton gins, oil mills and expansion in manufacturing sections creating new demands for both steam and domestic coal and coke.

Cement will be 5 per cent heavier. July was the first month this year showing increase in shipments over corresponding months of last year. Domestic mills are meeting keen competition on foreign cement importation and the matter of adequate protection, it is reported, rests with the United States senate.

Completion of good road programs, lack of funds in several of the states, and the confinement of maintenance to only absolute necessary repairs will result in an anticipated decrease of from 5 to 10 per cent in movement of crushed stone, sand, gravel and slag.

Furniture trends show an indicated increase of 5 per cent. A general improvement in the iron and steel industry is reported and shipments are expected to exceed those of 1928 by 10 per cent.

Lumber demand is slow and orders below last year. Production continues under that of 1928 and a decrease of 5 per cent in shipments is anticipated. Shipments of naval stores will be 8 per cent greater, and pulp, paper and products 11 per cent heavier. An increase demand of about 15 per cent is also expected for farm machinery.

New York, September 6.—(Special.)—The Central Hanover Bank & Trust Company, of New York, announced the appointment of William C. Bennett as assistant secretary. YOUNGER QUAKERS LAUNCH REBELLION ON OLDER TENETS

Oskaloosa, Iowa, September 6.—(AP) Threatened rebellion of young Quakers against the conservative methods of their elders loomed today following the pronouncement at yesterday's sessions of the All-American Friends conference that the old Quaker practices were obsolete and inefficient.

Two young men from the Pacific coast, leaders in the annual meetings in their states, stood together in the assertion that "young Friends are clamoring for a change in methods."

They were Frank W. Dell, Whittier, Cal., and Edward Mott, of Oregon. Dr. Raymond Binford, president of the Guilford (North Carolina) college, made a plea for a change in Quaker educational methods, by introducing the personal element into its teaching.

'More of Same,' Seen for Today By Weatherman

"It's not the heat, it's the humidity," explained A. H. Scott, assistant meteorologist, when questioned about general weather conditions Friday afternoon.

Some party leaders held the view now that there should be no action looking to the selection of a national committeeman for Georgia until the state central committee has been able to agree upon a man.

NEGRO CONVICT KILLED; 3 ESCAPE IN LIBERTY DASH

Savannah, Ga., September 6.—(AP) Four negroes made a dash for liberty from a convict camp on the state highway near Stilton today, and one of them was shot and killed by a guard. The other three escaped.

The dead negro was John Smith. Chief of Police W. H. Mauney said the city had no ordinances covering this kind of attire but expressed the hope he would not be faced with a general "pajama condition."

ROLLINS STARTS "CONCENTRATION PLAN" OF STUDY

Inter Park, Fla., September 6.—(AP) Rollins college, which three years ago discarded the lecture and recitation system of instruction in favor of the "conference plan," will institute a "refinement" of the new system when the college reopens on October 2.

President Hamilton Holt announced through the administration offices here today.

The new development in the conference system is to be called the "concentration plan." The student, it was explained, instead of taking five subjects for three periods a week, will take three subjects for five periods a week and the courses instead of being arranged on a yearly basis will be scheduled on a term basis. The short courses will be completed in one term, and the intensive courses will take two terms.

FERTILIZER ACT TEST SUIT FILED IN FLORIDA COURT

Tallahassee, Fla., September 6.—(AP) The fertilizer act of the 1929 legislature is to be tested in the courts. Attorney General Fred H. Davis was advised today.

The test to be instituted by Arthur Y. Milam, Jacksonville attorney and former speaker of the house, will be in the form of an injunction proceeding to restrain the commissioner of agriculture from making seizures under the law.

The fertilizer act undertakes to require fertilizer manufacturers to brand their product with the names of the ingredients which it is made, with other information regarding the contents.

Opponents of the law will contend that the contents of fertilizer are "trade secret" and that the legislature has no right to compel manufacturers to label their product with such information.

FIVE ARE HELD FOR PLOT TO ATTACK PREMIER'S TRAIN

Kovno, Lithuania, September 6.—(AP) Considerable excitement prevails here over the arrest of Colonel Pletskaitis and five companions on German soil yesterday who were supposed to be planning an attack upon the train carrying Premier Waldeck-Bismarck to Lithuania from the meeting of the League of Nations at Geneva.

President Antanas Smetona returned to Kovno this morning from Poland, a health resort.

Premier Waldeck-Bismarck, who is still at Geneva, has been informed of the situation and his reply is awaited.

Political circles here credit reports that Pletskaitis planned an attack on the train carrying the premier and it is predicted that extradition of the group of Lithuanians will be demanded from the German government despite that political offenders probably would not be handed over by the German government. It is stated here that Pletskaitis' case is criminal and not political.

WE WERE ON THE ISLAND TO HAVE OUR HOUSEBOAT TOWED UP TO OUR LANDING AND TO BRING THE YELLA KID ALONG. WE WERE SURPRISED WHEN THE STEAMBOAT, HUDSON LEE, STOPPED WITHOUT US SIGNALING. AND GOODNIGHT! WE WERE SURPRISED WHEN THE WHELM PHAG, CAME OFF THE STEAMBOAT WITH A STRANGE MAN, WHO TURNED OUT TO BE THE YELLA KID'S UNCLE.

Month's Trial Helped Her

"I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was 14 years old to build me up. I had been frail and nervous. After taking three bottles I was in normal condition. Since then I occasionally have a run-down feeling which makes me weak, nervous and irritable. By taking two or three bottles of the Compound I am back to normal."—Mrs. Jerry C. Jarvis, R. F. D. THE GUMPS—SWEET DREAMS

THE HAWK

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.
Douglas Dorling, a young British peer, is sent to the London prison on the charge of having killed a woman in a fit of passion. He is a famous aviator, but to keep this knowledge from his mother and more her worry, he has been using the assumed name of Douglas Harris; and as Douglas Harris he is tried and convicted.

He is rescued from prison in spectacular fashion, right under the eyes of his guard, by persons unknown, is shaved and dressed in new clothes, and driven to the Gunter hotel where, to his amazement, he is greeted by Cora. She has registered as his wife. Cecily Warren, the girl Douglas loves, is also staying at the Gunter. She sees Douglas embraced by Cora, on his arrival, and jumps to the conclusion he must be secretly married. Distasteful and heartbroken she leaves for London. Douglas meets his father's old friend, Sir Aspin Granston, in the lobby, and accepts his invitation to drive to London. He escapes from Cora, leaving a note. Immediately she wires James Mallon, well-known amateur connoisseur of the arts and a neighbor of the Granstons. Mallon is decoding the wire. Martha Ferrate, Cecily's maid, calls. She is obviously in a hurry. He orders her to bring her mistress within a few days to a town called Mortville in Scotland.

INSTALLMENT XII. DOUG RECEIVES A SUMMONS.

A Mrs. Setton had implied to Cecily that he, Douglas, was going to be married! He stood looking at Cecily and she returned his gaze with bright blue eyes that were somehow not the eyes of the Cecily he loved. Mrs. Setton had implied? Douglas thrust the tangle of bewilderment from his mind. He would return to it shortly, but for the moment he must concentrate on ending an awkward situation. He laughed self-consciously and turned to the judge.

"How does one plead 'not guilty' to a charge of being married, Sir?" he asked. But the judge merely grunted, and the joke fell flat.

"I had a brief chat with that Mrs. Setton," cut in Hugh, trying to come to Douglas's rescue. "Bumped into her on the stairs or something, and had to apologize. She gave me the life history of nearly everybody I knew."

Lady Granston saw that her little party was in danger.

"I think, Cecily, we must really accept Lord Dorling as the final authority on whether he's married or not," she put in.

"Of course!" agreed Cecily promptly. "How stupid of me! Sorry, Douglas!"

Dorling, who knew every infection of her voice, was not deceived. The others were at least pretending that they were deceived, and outwardly the incident was closed. Hugh was opening a card table.

Just as they were sitting down the butler came in, and handed Douglas a note.

"A boy brought this, my lord, but would not wait to see if there was an answer."

With apologies to his hostess, Dorling took the note. Inside the envelope was another envelope addressed to Mr. Setton.

"Dear Douglas," he read. "It is absolutely necessary for your own safety that you should come to see me at once.—Cora."

It was written under the address of a block of flats in Harley Street. "My safety can look after itself for another hour or two," he told himself, as he thrust the note into his pocket.

He drew Lady Granston for a partner against Hugh and Cecily.

It was only with the utmost difficulty that he could give enough attention to the game to avoid letting his partner down. His mind was already grappling with the problem Cecily had presented. Cora, of course, had not said to Cecily, "Lord Dorling is married," because Cora did not know that the man to whom at such enormous cost she was giving back liberty was any one but Doug Harris, the aviator.

Equally his reasoning took another step forward—Cora had not said "Doug Harris is married," for he would have been pointless and dangerous, and would have meant nothing to Cecily. Unless Cora knew that Doug Harris and Douglas Dorling were one, and Douglas felt quite positive she did not know.

He stole a glance at Cecily. She was, to all appearances, intent upon the game. Nevertheless, in the next hand she revoked. She apologized to her partner, and there was something in the way Hugh Granston accepted her apology that made Douglas sure that in Hugh he had a rival. He set his teeth grimly. Then, as though the sudden rush of jealousy had cleared his brain, he saw exactly what had happened at the Gunter hotel, Cora.

in her role of Mrs. Setton, had chattered about the husband who was joining her in a day or two. And Cecily, herself unused, had been a witness of his arrival—and had recognized him.

"Hearts," said Lady Granston. But after Cecily's getting the game had become listless. The judge and Mr. Mallon were enjoying themselves in the corner, but the rest of the party was failing. Cecily was giving mechanically bright answers, and it was secretly a relief to all when she announced she must go home.

"You will see Cecily home, Lord Dorling?" asked Lady Granston. "Delighted, if she'll let me," said Dorling.

He thought for a moment she was about to refuse, but that would have been to create another awkward moment, and she accepted indifferently. He made his farewells to the Granstons and Mr. Mallon, then handed Cecily into a taxi, and followed with his suitcase.

Her father's flat, he knew, was in Westminster, and he would have about ten minutes.

"I say, Cecily, have we had a row?" he began, trying to find out exactly where he stood.

"Of course not! Why should we? It's no affair of mine."

The judge's words, at any rate, told him where he stood. There was a brief pause, and then he decided to take the plunge.

"Does it matter if I did?" she asked coolly.

"I believe you're not married, if that's what you're getting at."

"That's a simple explanation."

"Too simple to be given in Lady Granston's drawing room," she interrupted. "The kind of explanation that is given at night in a taxi. Let me off it, please, Douglas. I'd rather hear what you're been doing in Africa."

"The two are linked up," he said quickly, and resolved there and then to tell her the whole truth. Cecily, the old Cecily, whom he knew and loved, would believe that Cora had committed perjury.

"You'll see in a minute why I could not blurt it out at the Granstons. You think I've simply had a clandestine affair, and have been carelessly found out. As to that—I solemnly swear to you I have never kissed that woman, and never would in any circumstances do so."

"Thanks!" It was the concentrated bitterness of her voice that checked him. He was not to know she believed she had actually seen him kiss the woman.

"What on earth does it matter to me whether you're kissed or not?" she demanded.

It was impossible for him to go on in the face of that cold challenge.

"Sorry, I see I've been a fool. I honestly did tell myself that it would matter to you if I had a love affair of any kind with another woman."

At that she laughed—and with her laughter snatched back her self-respect to the eyes of the world and won the freedom to nurse her hurt in secret.

"You are old fashioned, Douglas! My dear boy, nobody thinks the worse of a man for that kind of thing nowadays. Only, believe me, it isn't done to talk about it and explain and make it sound somebody's else's fault."

The taxi was stopping outside the flat.

"Here we are, Douglas, for seeing me home," she said, brightly, as she got out of the taxi.

"Blazes!" muttered Dorling, as she left him. He watched her into the light—continued to stare at the empty shaft after the lift had disappeared.

"Want to go on anywhere?" the taxi man asked him.

He felt in his pocket for Cora's note.

"Halden Mansford, Bayswater," he ordered.

As Dorling paid his fare and passed into the block of flats, a man stepped from behind a pillar box and approached the taxi man.

"Where've you come from?" asked the man.

"Barrington square, number forty-one, where I picked up the sent and a young lady. Dropped her lady at Ashley Mansions, and brought him on 'ere."

The man noted the two addresses in his pocket book.

Five Promising Soph Backs Cause Rise in '29 Petrel Grid Hopes

JOHNSTON, WILLING IN AMATEUR FINAL

FIVE PROMISING SOPH BACKS GLADDEN BIRDS

Play of Line Will Determine Oglethorpe's Strength.

By Ralph McGill.

Five sophomore backs and the good year 1928 were the assets which Harry Robertson mentioned yesterday afternoon as he drove his Petrel squad through a workout that was rather intense.

The good year 1928 added a year's experience to the big raw line which the Petrels had last season. They were green and badly lacking in experience last year and the Petrel opponents were able to slash through.

The line will be further augmented by Bryant, a tackle, who comes up from the ranks. The freshmen and reserves of last year produced no talent to speak of. Lack of line material is becoming almost a tradition at Oglethorpe. Bryant weighs better than 200 pounds and gets about fast. His presence is expected to produce part of the expected general improvement in the line play.

"I'll find out what to expect from the line when we begin scrimmaging next week," said Robertson. "They should be better after the experience of last year. I am afraid that they will not be very fast. They were a slow lot of forwards and speed isn't acquired quickly if at all."

FIVE BACKS.
The five backs, Syrett, Applin, Myers, Boone and Anderson, any one of whom may break in as a starting member of the backfield, will enable Robertson to develop a versatile attack.

This attack was tipped yesterday afternoon as the Petrel squad went through a lot of gyrations involving short forward passes and some double passes. Robertson was teaching his backs and ends to handle the ball. Nitty Campbell, the brilliant back of three years ago, was aiding the backs and ends in the work, with Robertson serving as general supervisor.

No coach blessed with time capable backs will let the opportunity pass without showing the opposition a lot of new faces, tricks and maybe a lot of heels. The line will determine just how many hustling heels the Petrel opposition looks at this fall. If they can hold until the fast backs get to the line or throw those passes the Petrel team will win most of its games this fall.

They have one of the toughest schedules ever attempted and the Petrel coaches know it. They have got the team down to work that is harder and more severe than the Yellow Jackets have had this week. Robertson has his men in shoulder pads and head-gears. They were working on the tackling dummy and the fundamentals of blocking.

HARD ON LINEMEN.
Since the line holds the key to the Petrel's success or failure this fall it is only natural that the forwards should be bearing the brunt of the life is no easy pathway for the Oglethorpe linemen. They had on headgears Thursday and again yesterday. The work consisted of some skeleton offensive and defensive drills. Robertson was taking out a lineman and of breaking through for tackles. It was steamy work.

The sophomore backs, five of them, will work as substitutes if they do not upset the regular line-up which returns from last fall.

SPEED AND DRIVE.
Harry Robertson separated the five sophomores and they appeared to be a trim-looking set of backs. They worked out with a lot of speed and drive. Robertson returns Cy Bell, Herpin, Martin, MacLaughlin and Fox from the regular 1928 squad. With his five new backs he will be able to keep fresh men in the line-up through all his games this fall with nothing gentle about it.

Harry Robertson, who is not the soul of optimism, believes his team has a better chance this season than it had last fall. He will be looking at general scrimmage work next week. If the line profited from its experience of last fall the Petrels may become a factor in the S. I. A. A. championship.

THREE TEAMS.
Three teams were running in the varsity squad. They had a lot of pep in their practice and went at the dummy and the skeleton scrimmage with a lot of enthusiasm.

Wall, end; Coffee and Church, tackles; H. Bell and Fulton, guards; Burford, center; Herpin, Cy Bell, Martin, MacLaughlin and Fox, backfield, are the men who return from the 1928 varsity. They were divided up on two of the three teams running yesterday.

The Petrels don't know—they are waiting to see what the scrimmage work will reveal. They may surprise quite a few folks this fall. They have the weight and the speed. If the line can develop Harry Robertson is going to upstart management and hopes to fight his way back to the crowd after a month's rest in Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Joe Dundee Plans Return to Boxing

New York, September 6.—(AP)—Joe Dundee, former welterweight champion, announced today that he will return to the ring within a few weeks under new management.

The Baltimore Irishman, who has been fighting for the next two years under the direction of James J. Johnston, Dundee said he blamed the loss of his title on poor management and hopes to fight his way back to the crowd after a month's rest in Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Conference coaches are experimenting these days moving as swiftly as they can to settle on a tentative varsity combination against the necessity of scrimmaging not later than next week.

The coach who fails to act decisively now finds himself forced to change his line-up just before the opening game and often plunges his team into confusion at a fatal moment.

Thus we read of "Stumpy" Thomason running a while at fullback with the Yellow Jackets and calling signals from that post. One hears that Dan McGugin is trying Gene McIlwaine, his lone remaining veteran halfback, at guard; Vandy needs a hustler to team with Captain "Bull" Brown.

Again, Bernie Bierman, at Tulane, is giving Pizzano, a big quarterback, a whirl at guard and sees in Roberts, his star end of last year, a potential center.

A week hence line-ups everywhere will be pretty well set—until summer school or what grief have you disrupts the arrangement.

EX-HALFBACKS.
The demand in the modern game for fast, sure-footed guards who can hustle out into the interference is insistent; that is why many coaches are looking to the backfield squad to furnish guards when other sources fail.

TULANE'S "SPOT."
Tulane is sitting in a pretty spot to catch Georgia Tech's football team doing this year. Just before the Yellow Jackets invade New Orleans they play nobody but Florida.

No power at the Flats can keep the Florida game from being THE BIG October battle. Unsatisfied rivalry that became keen in 1928 when Florida had a great eleven but did not meet Tech, will be boiled down into one dose of pepper sauce to pour on the 1929 conflict.

Florida returning nearly every important cog of the 1928 team and with a shrewd, resourceful coaching staff, will come to Atlanta with a yelping delegation of students and alumni to make of the day the grand smash of the year.

Tech will be forced to play a typical "third Saturday" game, which is to say, it's best, to prevent a staggering defeat.

And win or lose, the Yellow Jackets will be due for a slight slump the following Saturday. That may be where Billy Banker and his Green Wave brothers cut off a huge chunk of victory.

ROMAN HOLIDAY.
Tulane, incidentally, has invited leading sports writers of the east and distinguished statesmen of Louisiana and of Georgia to witness the Tech game. Does that sound as if the Tulane authorities were blue over the gridiron outlook?

THOSE VOLS.
The Vols are just about to slump themselves out of the Southern league pennant. They now are playing on the road. Once out of their little park they cannot stand the pace.

This was predicted rather bluntly in this column while the Vols were overhauling the Barons during their home stay in Sulphur Dell.

Lemme call attention to Ralph Emerson McGill's engaging outburst in another column today and his analysis of the Vol plight. Ralph Emerson has quite recently passed through the mellowing experience of being wedded, but his flashing typewriter has lost none of its possibilities of clever satire. If Ralph Emerson did not get them told, as they say, then Patrick Henry was tongue-tied.

ABOUT BOBBY.
Answering J. J. O. Chattanooga, Tenn.: Bobby Jones lost to Max R. Marston, 2 and 1, in the second round of the tournament of 1923, not in the first round.

THE SPIRIT.
Just what Atlanta thinks of Oglethorpe university, that lusty youngster out Peachtree road, is shown by information furnished this desk by Dr. Thornwell Jacobs.

The fence around the new stadium and the scoreboard are being built almost entirely by contributions of lumber, paint and metal products contributed by Atlanta firms.

Among those who gave supplies and materials are Chestnut & Nash, Marbut-Williams Co., Disbro Lumber Co., Gresham Lumber Co., Patterson Lumber Co., Pattillo Lumber Co., Phoenix Planing Mill, Williams-Flynt Co., Williams Bros. Lumber Co., Willingham-Tift Lumber Co., Randall Brothers, Tripod Paint Co., Dowman-Doxier Co., Claude McGinnis, Outdoor Advertising Co. If one wonders why Atlanta grows and grows and Atlanta institutions are fostered the above typical example of the Atlanta spirit may be clipped out.

Gray Sox Win.
Fort Myers, Fla., September 6.—In a one-sided baseball game, the Atlanta Gray Sox defeated the Fort Myers All-Stars, 13 to 3, here today before an unusually large crowd. A feature of the game was the pitching of Howard and Taylor for the locals, Hall and Caper. Another game between the same teams will be played Saturday afternoon.

Miami Gets Coach.
Dallas, Texas, September 6.—(AP)—J. Burton Rix, who has served three Texas colleges as head coach and other as assistant, left Dallas today for Miami, Fla., to assume his new duties as athletic director and head football coach at the University of Miami. He formerly was head coach at Southern Methodist university, Austin college, Southwestern university at Georgetown and assistant mentor at Texas university.

Three Coaches' Sons On Conference Squads

Three sons of famous football coaches are seeking berths on Southern Conference football teams this fall. At Vanderbilt University Dan McGugin Jr. is playing with the scrubs. He is Dan McGugin Jr. Billy Lave's son, Bill Jr., is out for a place on the South Carolina football team which his father coaches. At North Carolina, Dick Yost, son of Fielding H. (Hurry) Yost, Michigan's director of athletics, is on the varsity backfield squad.

GOODMEN DRAW IN TWIN BILL WITH BARONS

Atlanta Wins First Game, 6-2, Birmingham Second, 3-2.

Birmingham, September 6. With a double defeat staring them in the face the Barons today pulled the nightcap of a twin bill off the fire in the seventh inning, scoring two runs to beat Atlanta, 3 to 2, after losing the first game, 6 to 2.

The victory was worth two games to the champions, as it enabled them to hold their two-game margin over Nashville. Caldwell allowed the Crackers six hits, but Moore's error brought in the first run in the opening game.

The Crackers scored one run in the third and Nick Dumovich gave the Barons an opportunity to score two. Hoby's grounder got by Pickering and Jones singled to left. Dumovich forced Hoby at third. Battle cracked a single to right and Jones scored. Sheehan forced Battle and Black threw out Lee.

BARONS BLOW.
Gibson and Van Alstyne led off with singles. Sturdy struck out and Sheehan tossed out Black. Andy Moore was purposely walked to get Vels, who filed to battle. The Barons blew up in the fifth when the Crackers scored five runs off two errors, three bases on balls and Lokey's terrific double. With one down Jones walked. Smith kicked Dumovich's grounder with a double play in sight.

Battle walked and the bases were loaded. Sheehan squeezed in Jones and went safe at first when Van Alstyne fumbled his bunt. Lee filed to Bennett and Culp walked.

Lokey doubled to center and the bases were emptied. Carlos Moore got the rax out by making Bucyrus fly to Vels.

The Barons broke up Dumovich's shutout in the fifth when Sturdy walked, stole second and scored on Smith's triple and Bennett's long fly to battle gave the Barons their second run in the sixth.

DUMOVICH EFFECTIVE.
Sheehan and Lee singled in the ninth with one out and Carlos Moore found both Culp and Lokey. The Barons were only able to get five hits off Dumovich, who had them cutting out in the last two. Nick gave them a scoring chance in the second and third and each time made the good hitters, if any, play into his hand. Only one, Lou Loper, was the Cracker who socked the champion. He drove in half of the visitors' total runs with a smashing double. Two old-timers were unable to get on base in the second game. CHAMPIONSHIPS TO BE DECIDED BY DAYS PLAY

Whittier and Grinnell Meet in Feature Double Bill at Riverside.

Real championship games will feature play for the fans of amateur baseball of the city as every game on the schedule today will mean either the loss of the pennant or the elimination from further play in the series to name Atlanta's best baseball team for 1929. Whittier Mills, city series winner in 1928, must defeat the Grinnell Company's team in a double-header for the City league title to enter the series this year.

Playing on their own diamond, located at Riverside, the Mills club should have some advantages. Manager Dowd will probably use "Tiny" Osborne, former Cracker hurler, in the first game, while the first-stringer team will pin its hopes to John Lewis, whose work this season earned him a tryout with the Little Rock Pebbles.

Another of the late leagues to finish, the Seawane loop of the Y-Church Athletic Association, will end its season with a double bill at northwest Piedmont park as the J. O. Y. Class and Oakland City Baptist battle for the honors.

Two games in the elimination series with the pennant winners of four leagues participating will be played at Clay field, the first game starting at 2 p. m. with A. H. Turner's Insurance league champions engaging the Southern Spring Baseball club, victors in the Atlanta league.

Grace Methodist, winner of the American league race, battles the Fulton Bag & Cotton Mills team, titleholders of the Commercial loop, in the nightcap. This affair will start at the conclusion of the first game.

In the series to determine the best team of the Y-Church Athletic Association starting at this time the Northwest Atlanta club, who won the Dixie league race last Saturday, will play the winner of the Fulton league race, Center Street Methodist, at Almond Park. Both teams are sure to be in top shape for this game.

Decatur fans will be able to witness their first championship game in many seasons as the Hapeville Baptist will invade the city for a double bill with the Pottsville Memorial Baptist club. The former went through the entire season undefeated to win the Georgia league flag while the Pottsville won the first half for the Piedmont league cup. Both leagues are members of the Y-Church Athletic Association.

The five leagues sponsored by the Y-Church Athletic Association are battling for the Trammel Scott loving cup. This cup will be in play when the club wins permanent possession by taking it three times. Only the champions of all these leagues enter the city series.

Play in Y-Church Series

Hapeville Baptists will meet the Pottsville Memorial High school diamond in the first game of the Y. C. A. amateur baseball championship series. The Hapeville team won the Georgia league pennant with a record of 19 victories and no defeats. Members of the championship Hapeville team are shown above. They are, front row left to right: Strickland, Evans, E. Casey, Waller, D. Aushorn. Back row, Wallace, Vernon, C. Aushorn, Mann, H. Casey and Manager Renfro. Bledso, Greene and Humphries, other members of the team, are not in the picture. Photo by W. C. Brown.

Loss of Strong and Hill Leaves Hole in N. Y. U. Backfield.

By Ted Vosburgh, Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York, September 6.—(AP)—Out in the rustic open spaces of Long Island, Little Chick Meehan is molding a New York university football machine that has a good chance to defend its 1929 honors as the highest scoring major team in the country, provided a couple of halfbacks hopes come up to expectations.

Deprived of the spearhead of his 1928 attack by the graduation of the night Ken Strong and the death of Ed Hill, Coach Meehan is sifting a promising batch of material in quest of a couple of capable youngsters to fill their shoes.

Right now the signs point to Beryl Pollet, regular back last season, to take the place of Strong as the leading ball-carrier, while Dave Myers is slated to be shifted from running guard to halfback to take over the duties of "cleansing man" so ably performed by Hill.

HEFTY PROSPECT.

Follet reported for his final year of football bigger and faster than ever before and may be a threat for the individual scoring honors won by Strong, although he is not so versatile. If Meehan should decide to lose Myers, the speedy New York negro in the line where he played brilliantly all last season, the cleanup job probably will fall to a sophomore, Herman Launier, of Coropopolis, Pa. Tiny though he is, the pig-skin Medford (Mass.) peppercorn, Dudley Hornel, seems slated for a more or less regular role, perhaps as a quarterback assignment with John O'Herrin, of Syracuse, N. Y., regular pilot in 1928. Five feet four inches tall and weighing only 125 pounds, Hornel is the ace of Meehan's pet "rabbit backfield," which averages 125 pounds per man, but Bud is fast and smart enough to see serious service.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 18

the foremost of the charging warriors went down to quick death beneath the long, stout club of the ape-man. Now it was the turn of the second, striking right and left with mighty power and fury. Then over the frightful din, Tarzan lifted his voice in a series of sudden weird screams, a sound so terrible that the savages could not believe their ears.

Yet with their own eyes they had seen this white man open his mouth as if to pour forth his awful cry. They had seen the smoke of his breath as he crashed in the jungle behind them. As they looked in the direction of this new noise, there broke upon their startled vision a sight that may well have frozen the blood of braver men than these black warriors.

Leaping from the tangled vegetation of the jungle's rim came a huge panther, with blazing eyes and bared fangs. And in his wake a score of ponderous, shaggy apes lunged rapidly toward them. Half erect upon their short bowed legs, their long arms reaching to the ground, the frightful horde advanced. The beasts of Tarzan had come in answer to his call!

No wonder the Wagamba blacks scattered for their lives. Heavy spears were hurled and apes went down, never to rise. Shouts of tearing claws ripped and tore at black hides. Akut's yellow tusks found the throat of more than one glowering savage. And Tarzan of the Apes was here, there, and everywhere, urging on his fierce allies, and himself taking a heavy toll with his keen knife.

FINAL RITES SUNDAY FOR VICTIM OF AUTO

Mrs. Elizabeth Fowler, 62,
Almost Instantly Killed.
Mrs. C. W. Land Held.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Fowler, 62, of 436 Kelly street, who was almost instantly killed when she was struck by an automobile Friday morning, will be conducted at 2 o'clock Sunday at the Grant Park Baptist church. The Rev. W. A. Duncan will be in charge and burial will be in the Indian Creek cemetery.

Mrs. Fowler was killed shortly before 9 o'clock as she was attempting to cross Park street near Hill street, by an automobile driven by Mrs. C. W. Land, of 163 Clifton street. According to Mrs. Land and other witnesses, the aged woman stepped from behind a parked truck directly into the path of Mrs. Land's car. She was picked up by Roy Gardner, of 983 Piedmont avenue, a passerby, who took her to Grady hospital, where she was found to be dead on arrival.

Mrs. Land reported at once to police headquarters and after giving her account of the tragedy was released under $1,000 bond on charges of reckless driving.

Mrs. Fowler is survived by a daughter, Mrs. E. R. White, and two sons, H. L. C. A. H. A. and C. R. Fowler.
